I'm really proud of the way Comics Source has evolved over the last year and a half. I look at the progress we've made and feel that, although we will always strive to improve, we have made great strides since we first began.

And this issue is a great example of what I'm talking about. We've added over 1000 more documented sales to the TickerTape. Of all the things we've introduced, I'm most proud of TickerTape. It's going to become a very important tool as it grows and evolves. We've introduced our Market Talk section of market reports, where we ask dealers and collectors to tell our readers what's going on in the market. This month's Marketplace is a real winner with over 6000 great comics including Batman #1, Captain America #1, and Showcase #4. Our Letters To The Editor section is starting to become an interesting forum, although I'd sure like to see more of you writing in. Last but not least, our writers have done an excellent job with well-written commentary about the hobby. All in all, this issue is one of our best ever.

We are excited about the growth in our subscriptions and distribution sales. As of this writing, we are reviewing contracts that will enable us to go on the newsstands. As a result of this growth, our Marketplace listings rate has been raised to $1.25, up from $1.00. The good news is, our rate is still the lowest in the industry. And we still offer discounts for large numbers of listings, so you can save money that way.

By the way, marketplace listers that can repeat the same listings in subsequent issues of the marketplace can save a lot of dough. Our database system keeps all listings stored on disk, even after they have expired. We can re-activate those listings very easily, so the work of doing the data entry does not have to be repeated. We save a lot of time, and we can pass this savings on to you. Let's say you list 1000 books in the marketplace at a cost of $625 (with discount for bulk). Out of those 1000 listings you sell 250 books. You still have an inventory of 750 books in the Comics Source database. We can renew those 750 books into the next issue for only 50¢ each!

Another way you can save dough is by earning free Marketplace listings. How? By contributing sales data to TickerTape, by writing a market report or market letter of comment for Market Talk, or by writing a letter for our Letters To The Editor section. If we publish them, we pay 25 free listings for a Market Talk report, 10 free listings for letters to the editor, and for each sold book you report for TickerTape, we give you two free Marketplace listings.

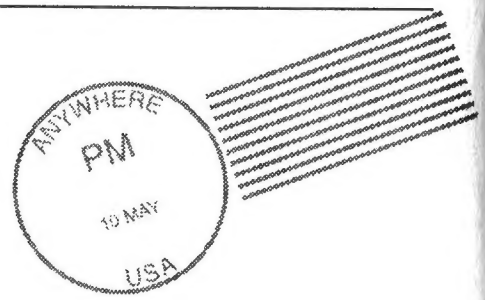
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR



The Evolution of Reed and Sue

Issue #10 of Comics Source was recently given to me by a comics dealer and I enjoyed it so much that I'll be asking him to order it for me regularly. I especially liked some of the text pieces, to which I'll offer some of my own random thoughts.

In regards to Mr. Chesney's letter where he suggests that the silver age is still ongoing, I beg to differ and offer Kirby's first departure from Marvel as the end of the silver age. Today's comics bear such little resemblance to those of even the late sixties, that I can't see how anyone can deny a vast sea of change has occurred between then and now.

Although Craig Shutt's article on the "Fantastic Four Kid" was entertaining, it was the illustration of Reed and Sue on page 20 that arrested my attention. That picture has always stood out to me as the culmination of the evolution of those two characters, from the gawky, insecure characters of the early Fantastic Four to the more mature husband and wife of this period. Can anyone looking at this picture reconcile themselves to the cartoonlike, immature characterizations portrayed in the Fantastic Four today? The realism as personified in the evolution of the relationship between Reed and Sue that Marvel pursued in the silver age has since been completely vitiated, underscoring Dr. Contarino's comments in his own piece. (Incidentally, underlining my comments above about the end of the silver age, and to gently correct Mr. Shutt, Kirby's last issue of the Fantastic Four was #102, not #101 and furthermore, an apparently unfinished Kirby yarn was used for issue #108 as well.)

I really enjoyed Dr. Contarino's article on his own golden age of comics (which most nearly matches my own), particularly his comments regarding Sgt. Fury and His Howling Commandos, which too little has been written about. Having reread them recently, I can only agree with Contarino's estimation of just how different (and better) they were than the usual run of war books. Suffice it to say (as it would be an article in itself if I explained all of its virtues) that not only did Sgt. Fury bring the war comic alive with living, breathing personalities, hilarious humor based on G.I. travails and rip-roaring action that resembled more Marvel's super hero books than the typical war book, but Stan and Jack still had the time to tackle sensitive issues such as bigotry ("Fangs of the Desert Fox"). As for the conclusion of his article, I must confess that I've been daydreaming myself about these talked about comic chain stores running most comic shops out of business and leaving a core few relegated to the back issue market and tucked away in old downtown back waters . . .

Argosy Price Guide

After reading the letter printed in Comics Source #10 by Landon Chesney, I felt compelled to respond. Why? I can verify that the Argosy Comic Book Price Guide is, in fact, a real "artifact" and not a practical joke cooked up by Spicer and Willits! A copy of this elusive item is offered in my "Fantastic Mall Bid Sale #18" which will close on July 23, 1994. After the auction, I'll update everyone on the price this item realized. Here's a brief description:

Argosy Comic Book Price Guide (1965 First Edition, Argosy Book Shop). Fair cover, very good pages. 5.25" x 8.25." Forty pages offset, no illustrations, staple bound soft-cover. Not a price list. This is a very early guide with mint prices such as Action #1: $100. All Star #1: $50. Detective #27: $80. Showcase #4: $7.50; Fantastic Four #15: $5!

On another subject: I disagree with Keith Contarino on Conan #1 being overvalued. Why? Well, of the two near mint copies I have had recently, one sold for $150 and the other for $175. The one that sold for $175 is the best example of a Conan #1 I have ever seen. Since these were sold at auction and several people placed non-winning bids fairly close to the winning bid, I conclude that the value placed on this book is real. I do not disagree with Keith's overall point, however. Many books are priced too high in the guide and my auctions support that hypothesis when those books bring only 40 to 60% of guide.

Lower grade books that are properly graded are starting to look cheap based on the Overstreet guide's computer generated spreads. Personally, I do think the increased spreads are valid for major keys, but when you are talking about a book that is $30 in near mint, I know that I, for my personal collection, would be more than happy to pay $15 for a properly grade fine and would snap 'em up at the $10 or so that many $30 near mint books are priced at in fine according to the spread.

Finally, consider this. Although it has not really happened with most of the key comics, other more established collectibles always cycle in both directions. In other words, just because someone paid $100,000 for the best known Action #1 today does not mean the book will be worth that much five years hence. As more and more well-funded collectors enter the market and raise prices on the top tier comics they will actually be more likely to decrease in price at some point in the future. The kicker here is: when will that point be reached? If I knew that I'd be rich. Most of the six-figure coins are worth much less today than in the mid to late 1980s. Buy what you enjoy and you can't go wrong.

The Shared Experience of Comics and Parenthood

I'm writing to express how impressed I am by your outstanding magazine. There's an interesting point I'd like to discuss and your letters column seems to be the only place where I stand a chance of getting a thoughtful answer. This is my sad tale of overwritten bombast. (Even in letters, there is the inevitable Kirby tribute!)

Recently I was lucky enough to purchase some tatty old Romita Daredevil books to almost complete my tatty Daredevil collection. As the comics became mine, I politely asked the nice old man why he was parting with a stack of well-read books that had been sitting in his garage all this time, and his answer was really depressing. "Well son, my kids aren't interested, and I'd much prefer to give them the twenty dollars than the comics they've never shared with me." At least, I was able to reassure him they'd go to a loving home.

I thought about this old guy. He's read Daredevil for years, had spent wonderful hours trying to earn a no-prize, had pursued the elusive back-issue at out-of-the-way stores, and so on. I felt saddened at how he would have so much enjoyed introducing his kids to these wonderful books.

I thought about my father, and how most of my fondest memories of him are being taught how to fish, or play cards, or paint houses - things we shared (then again, he hated comics...) Dad's legacy to me is much more one of shared experience and love than a material one.

What I mean is . . . I'd rather have all of my shared times with my dad than inherit the money from a mint run of SpiderMan Comics which I would probably loathe because he spent so much time pursuing and enjoying them, rather than watching me play cricket.

And what I wonder is . . . is the corollary true? Will I need to instill in my children a love for my hobby so that I can enjoy my Romitas without neglecting my responsibilities, and double the fun by sharing it? If my Daredevils became even tattier being read by Clark and Bruce and me together, I think they'd constitute a glorious legacy.

Perhaps your excellent contributors (I note Jack Mallette's allusion to his own son in a recent issue) could discuss their experiences of the hobby and its effect on the children of people they know.

Thanks for a great magazine. The comics listed are usually way out-of-date by the time I read them [here in Australia], but the excellent articles are more than worth it.

Best wishes,
Dr. A. Di Dio

IT'S SUPERMAN!

ON THE MARKET FOR $160,000!

A rare original Action Comics #1 book, with Superman on its cover for his debut, has gone on the market at the asking price of $160,000.

Pacific Comic Exchange, broker for the book, claims this is the third-best copy of Action Comics #1 known to exist.

Action Comics #1 introduced Superman, the first superhero and the most important comic book character ever created. According to insiders, Superman is credited with single-handedly turning the fledgling comic book business into a major industry.

"The high price is warranted by this book's extreme rarity and excellent condition," states Robert Roter, president of Pacific Comic Exchange. Roter adds there is a certain aura of mystery in industry circles concerning Action Comics #1 in high grade.

Roter explains that as many as 75 copies of Action Comics #1 are in existence, but only one legendary mint copy is known to exist.

"That particular mint book," says Roter, "is part of the famed "Mile High" vintage comic collection and if it were on the market today, I'd expect a selling price in the range of half a million dollars."

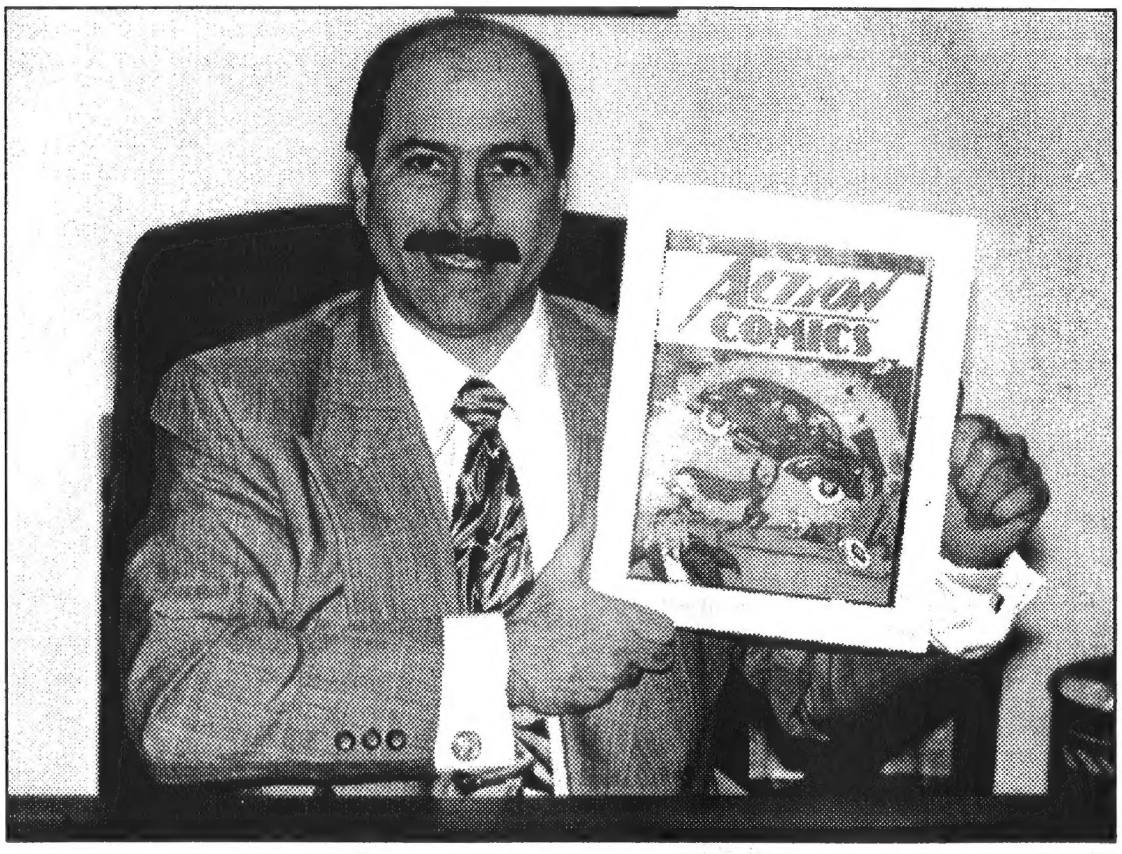
A copy of Action Comics #1 with tanned pages ("fine/very fine-50" on the CGSA scale) was sold at auction by Sotheby's in 1992 for $82,500. A restored copy of Action Comics #1 sold June 18 at Sotheby's for $54,625.

In ten years, according to Roter, the market has never seen a better copy of Action Comics #1 than the one currently being brokered by Pacific Comic Exchange. This book features off-white pages and a "very fine-60" grade on the Comic Grading Service of America (CGSA) scale, the exclusive grading scale developed by PCE.

This rare book will be traded on PCE's international on-line computer network, which began operation in 1990 to link serious comic book traders throughout the world.

Recent PCE sales have included a 1939 Marvel Comics #1 (which introduced "The Human Torch") for $55,000 and a 1939 Detective Comics #27 (featuring the first appearance of Batman) for $29,850.

For more information, contact Robert J. Roter or Todd M. Reznic at Pacific Comic Exchange, (310) 836-7234.



In ten years, according to Robert Roter, President of Pacific Comic Exchange, the market has never seen a better copy of Action Comics #1 than the one currently being brokered by Pacific Comic Exchange.

Radio Comics

By Rex Miller

Imagine that you step into a time warp and when you step out, you're back in the 1940s. It's a different world: the air is clean; no one locks their doors; doctors make house calls; and a kid can still get into the movies for fifteen cents. This week's double-bill at the Orpheum is Mr. District Attorney and The Shadow Returns, plus two color cartoons, The Three Stooges, and Chapter Four of Dick Tracy Vs. Crime Inc.

On your way to the Orpheum you collect sixteen empty Vess, Double, and Rummy Cola bottles, and pass the kindly druggist at the pharmacy next door on the way to the newsstand which is filled with these incredibly beautiful comics, pulps, slick magazines, and paperbacks, but since you're a kid of the radio age your eyes rove across the racks of comics. You want comics which were first radio programs, and your eighty cents will be all too easy to spend, but before you decide which titles to purchase, you need to see the books with the eyes of a kid of the '40s, or none of this will make sense.

The fact that you may have heard some old time radio shows on cassette or disc doesn't prepare you. Radio—real radio—enlisted parts of your imagination that have become dormant over the years. Back then you were a participant in the creation of the heroes and villains; you invented a part of what you heard with your mind's eye. You "watched the radio" every day after school. Hard to imagine, isn't it?

Imagine this: it's Saturday night and the family drives down Hometown Avenue in the old Fraser sedan for a leisurely evening of window-shopping. Mom, Dad, Brother, and Sister promenade slowly down Main street, looking in the brightly-lit store windows as their favorite show plays on the air. The transistor has not yet been invented, radios still plug into a wall outlet, the portable headset is unheard of, yet they never miss a word of the show as they walk. Every store plays the most popular program over their street speakers. The family can walk for blocks and never miss a syllable of Gang Busters or Amos 'n Andy.

Or imagine a Sunday afternoon in the '40s, riding back from a great weekend at the lake, Dad behind the wheel, the radio playing. You've just heard The Green Hornet. It is five o'clock, according to the Mutual announcer, as eerie organ music oozes out of the Philco car radio, and this is what you hear . . .

"Who knows . . . what evil . . . lurks . . . in the hearts of men?" Bret Morrison intones, leaning across the face of the black and silver carbon mike, close enough to kiss steel, his magnificent voice hardening to the approximate density of titanium, milking each syllable of its textures and nuances as he poses radio's ultimate rhetorical question, answering it himself as his lips brush across metal and tens of thousands of arms and spines chill with universally-induced goosebumps, as the answer resonates from speakers coast to coast, "The Shadow knows!" He almost spits it out, lips virtually snarling as the organ stabs and hairs bristle from Lamont, California to Cranston, Rhode Island. This was radio, the real deal, and when The Shadow cackled his mocking laugh, every crook and evildoer within the sound of that unique voice was fighting to make his heart pure.

There was no one tougher than the Shadow, nobody! He carried a pair of blue steel avengers in .45 caliber, industrial strength master-blasters from Colt Firearms, and he didn't care who you were, what side of the tracks you came from, what color your skin was, mad scientist or swamp trash, gooney gangster or loony Oriental dope czar, werewolf, or vampire, he'd plant you in a Manhattan minute if you crossed the line. That was the cool thing about the radio Shadow, he took no prisoners.

The Shadow, back in the '30s and '40s, had more listeners than all those who read about him in the pulps, small format Whitmans, comic books, or strips, or saw him in feature films and chapters combined. He was far more important on radio than he was in print or on screen. The Shadow was radio.

Crazed artists bathed their statues in human type A-positive, mad scientists parboiled living experiments in sputtering puddles of fat, unspeakable mutants slithered from stagnant swamps, monstrous killers sacrificed their victims to the cult of the spider, and we watched the radio . . . spellbound!

There was often a supernatural element to the radio Shadow that was unique to the vintage ether: and if the occult, or black magic, or alchemy, or transubstantiation, or some other weird off-the-wall thing wasn't involved, it was a rare show. That was one of the great lures and magnets of the radio program, the hybrid feel of a detective who was also a superhero. Invisibility was one of the great wish-fulfillment fantasies. "Years ago, in the Orient, (where else?), Cranston learned the exotic power to cloud men's minds so that they cannot see him." No wonder he became one of the top characters in the history of mystery.

Shadow Comics, An Instant Smash

In 1940, with a Victory Jory serial playing down at the Tivoli, ("The Shadow" one-sheets are the rarest posters from that time frame,) and the radio series and pulp magazines a hit, Street & Smith brought Shadow Comics to the newsstand racks. It was an instant smash. Written by The Shadow's print creator, Walter B. Gibson–working under the Maxwell Grant pseudonym–the comics were beautifully drawn by Vernon Greene.

Greene was a superb craftsman who could seemingly draw anything. His suitably mysterious Shadows were excellent "walk-outs" from the radio. This was vital in our appreciation and enjoyment of radio comics, that is comics based on already established programs. The closer the comic book could come to matching our visual preconceptions of that character, the more successful it would be. Time and again you'll hear or see fans of the old time radio comics refer to that particular barometer: they had to "look like the radio program." Greene nailed that. The comic book was such a hit that a daily strip was also attempted and it was every bit as good as the books. The Shadow strips, now difficult to find, were among the finest ever produced.

I've never seen an original Shadow piece by Greene, but I've had other strips by him, and his use of black is wonderfully executed. One sees this even more in original art. The ability to draw figures and faces is readily apparent in Greene comic books and strips, but some of the more artistic techniques are awesome when one sees the real thing, up close and personal. Only Chester Gould's powerful blacks stayed in my head more vividly, over the years. Greene was sparing with it, all of his art is brilliantly balanced, measured, symmetrical, but when the forward rush of the story could accommodate it, Vernon Greene did amazing things with blocks of black. One sequence comes to mind in which The Shadow is drawn entirely in silhouette, in shadow, that is. Every panel! It's hammering to see stuff like this when the character is properly envisioned, and the story stays on track. The early Shadow comics and dailies were apparently written by Gibson, so that explains why they were so uniformly top-notch.

I never saw Greene-drawn Shadow art as a kid–I only knew the Comics of the postwar 1940s–and since I had nothing to compare them to I loved the Shadow Comics of my era. They may not begin to measure up to what Gibson/Greene produced in the 1940-1942 period, but taken by themselves they have a mesmerizing charm. Both the Shadow Comics and Gang Busters seemed to have had a penchant for heavy use of blues. In the postwar Shadow's blue period he would be drawn, appropriately, as blue shadow, the implied transparency faithful to our mentally-perceived radio image, not to mention his sponsor's anthracite.

Which Shadow you preferred visually depended largely on which artwork you most frequently came in contact with, obviously, and there was no comparison between George Rozen, Edd Cartier, Erwin Hess, Vernon Greene, and Bob Powell, to name just a few of the many Shadow artists over time. Powell was as different from the more painterly artists as–say George Wonder was from Milton Caniff–which is to say there was all the difference in the world. Powell was more cartoonish in his approach, and favored a thick-lined, bold look. Powell signed his name, so to speak, in the folds, wrinkles and shadows of every face he drew.

If you saw only the visual Shadow pictured in Whitman's Big/Better Little Books you'd have thought Erwin L. Hess drew the best image. Hess was one of Whitman Publications radio-era workhorses. Whatever Henry Vallely didn't draw, Hess did, under a variety of names including his own. (My favorite pen name: Erwin L. Darwin!) He drew Gene and Roy, in wonderfully mysterious, shadowy stands of pines, trouble hovering just around the next butte. He drew many of the radio favorites, from Captain Midnight to Ellery Queen, and his Shadow was intriguingly . . . I've got to use that word again . . . mysterious. That was Hess's trademark.

Artists had so much fun with the splashes. I recall a Shadow Comics shop job from 1946 where a girl falls from a window. The page is divided into three diagonally separated panels, with the central splash depicting her shouting "Hey!" The bottom panel is the visual punch line–she falls into a hay wagon. Okay, Will Eisner it's not, but the Shadow books were always fun to look at, and most of the comics kept fairly true to the spirit of the character.

There was a bit of fuzziness in the rendering of the Margot/Margo Lane-Lamont Cranston relationship. On radio she was "Cranston's friend and constant companion, the only person who knows to whom the voice of the invisible Shadow belongs." She lived with him, in other words. In the comics, however, Margo only suspected Lamont was the Shadow, in a relationship more like that of Lois Lane's to Superman. Parallel to this, in the pulps, Lamont was an aide to The Shadow, who was actually a chap named Kent Allard.

Sixty-three years after initially introducing the character to the screen in a series of two-reeler featurettes, Universal has brought the Shadow back to life in a big budget motion picture, with Alex Baldwin in the title role. It will be interesting to see how much of the radio Shadow's supernatural aspect has been utilized.

By the time the character of the Shadow had fully evolved on radio, the infant medium was growing fast, with new advertisers moving over from print to broadcast air. The influx of ad dollars swirling around the marketplace caused network and agency people to look for new source material, and comics provided grist for the adventure program mill. By 1932 such already existing stars as Buck Rogers, Buster Brown, Joe Palooka, Little Orphan Annie, Skippy, and Tarzan were on the air. Out of this milieu of commercial need, juvenile-targeted creations like The Lone Ranger and Jack Armstrong emerged.

The Lone Ranger

The Lone Ranger, created by Michigan-based broadcast visionary George W. Trendle, and shaped by writer Fran Striker, thundered out of Yesteryear in January of 1933, a WXYZ flagship series. Neither Fu Manchu nor Buck Rogers could claim such advanced sound effects. A staff of technicians pioneered the "SOFEX," as they were then called, and no other action show could touch the Ranger for innovative experimentation, or attention to minute details. Gunfights, horse effects, fight sounds, terrain, movement, everything was distinctly audible, which was quite startling for 1933. The state-of-the-art soundmen could duplicate a six-shooter (a rat trap on a thunder drum), hoofbeats (coconut shell halves in special terrain boxes), and raging infernos (crinkled cellophane); all were painstakingly integrated into the show.

The Lone Ranger led the way for other juvenile titles of the period, like Jack Armstrong, Tom Mix, and the rest, but the Masked Manhunter's program was always cited as having originated more of the early effects, such as paneless sliding windows, and sand or broom-corn-filled "footstep trays."

Trendle and Striker sculpted the character perfectly, a blend of such heroes as Zorro and diamond Dick, an idiosyncratic mixture of Texas Ranger do-gooder and vengeance-seeking vigilante working slightly outside the law. Everything from his background legend, to his weaponry, sidekick, horse, nemesis, calling card . . . universe, if you will, resonated to the same carefully orchestrated harmonics. John Reid, a.k.a. The Lone Ranger, was a brilliantly-crafted, larger-than-life protagonist, and a natural for transporting to the comic book stage.

It wouldn't surprise me if thirty to forty artists have drawn images of The Lone Ranger over the years, if you count all the free-lancers and agency personnel, but two or three names stand out among the golden agers: Hal Arbo, famous for having drawn some of the more beautiful radio premium maps, a straightforward artist with a linear pen-and-ink style; Ed Knessy, who did stylistic Rangers in the 30s; workhorses Robert Weisman and Henry Vallely, among my all-time favorite radio character artists; and, best of all, Charles Flanders. No one could touch Flanders' Lone Ranger for the kids of the 1940s. He was to the comics' version of the Masked Man what Basil Rathbone was to Sherlock . . . his artwork was kickin' like a headless chicken!

But when it comes down to describing just what made Flanders' art so well-suited to the character, words fail. The faces of these radio-familiar characters, the look of the saguaro and the sagebrush, the dynamics of the stories, were–once again–what we were expecting. Everything about Flanders' art looked right. His Lone Ranger was our Lone Ranger. The style is unmistakable; writer/artist Flanders even drew some of the great premium offers, such as the art for the leather belt holster that held the secret code pens shaped like silver bullets.

Certain strip sequences involving ghostly apparitions were typical of the Striker-based stories as brought to color panels by Charles Flanders. The artwork invariably struck the right chords. A rifle bore protrudes through foliage, the weapon fires, a puff of smoke billows forth in a panel that reminds us of the old Times Square Camel sign. How many young artists and "wanna bes" must have swiped "the Flanders look!"

Jack Armstrong

Jack Armstrong, the All-American Boy was the next big radio show, that eventually would find its way into the comics. Jack, created by General Mills' agency people, and drawn–primarily–by Bob Schoenke, would be another book to meet our pictorial expectations. Schoenke drew good backgrounds, and workmanlike figures and faces, and his Armstrong–though bland–seemed right, but he was expert at delineating stories that paralleled the radio serials. For whatever reason, there was no comic book for Jack's first thirteen to fourteen years. The book ran for only thirteen issues, and some were mediocre, but overall it was a good series. Number one was on the stands in 1947, and unlucky #13 bit the dust in 1949. By that time Armstrong on radio had peaked, and was racing downhill. The Jack Armstrong strips are hard to find, but I have an interesting pair of the same week's strip art run in two papers. The Post-Dispatch's condenses and chopped version shows truncated panels with the best one edited out entirely.

This strip is also a perfect example of how Schoenke mirrored the radio show. In 1947 a phrase like "midget submarine" was like "atomic bomb;" it was a catch phrase that instantly nudged our imaginations. One of the most memorable radio serials involved some bad guys attempting to kill Jack with a midget sub, which Armstrong then found caught underwater, cradled in a gnarled embrace of humongously-intertwined sea roots. Jack dove, somehow retrieved the sub with its still-deadly mini-torpedo, and sunk the bad guys' boat. It's funny, I don't recall what we watched on television last night, but I still remember the radio program and the comic art, from almost a half-century ago.

Gang Busters

Gang Busters tommy-gunned its way out of the Atwater-Kents in 1935, the brainchild of radioman Phillips H. Lord, creator of such fare as Mr. District Attorney, and David Harding, Counter-Spy. Lord's mid-thirties take on the "G-Man theme hit the G-spot." Whitman Publishing's dynamo Henry E. Vallely, who penned era artists, and his best work was often characterized by flowing blacks, minimalist linework, and crosshatching. Few artists could suggest so much with so few marks.

The Gang Busters comic book had a bizarre look, very often, being a shop job that owed its appeal to subject matter more than any freelancer's technique. It was the sort of thematic comic where one frequently saw a thug in the opening panels, snarling imprecations of venom-soaked hatred, his arms cradling that iconographic equalizer of the age, a Thompson submachine gun. The comics were effective representation of the violent, action-packed radio show that was the antecedent of such contemporary crime stoppers as "America's Most Wanted." What every kid most wanted was his own Marx Gang Busters wind-up gun and official shield, to fight the never-ending Crusade Against Crime begun by entrepreneur Phillips H. Lord.

The most interesting element of a Gang Busters radio comic can be found on the World War II series issue #17. The book has the only back cover of a golden age comic, so far as I know, that depicts a radio premium–the 1942 version of the Gang Busters shield offered by sponsors like Sloan's Liniment and Waterton's Pens.

A commercial currently running on network television employs the phrase made part of our vocabulary by the radio and comics that "came on like Gang Busters!"

The Green Hornet

Upon Trendle's success with The Lone Ranger, he brought his sec-ond big hero character to radio in 1936. Sponsored by Golden Jersey Milk over the growing Michigan Network, The Green Hornet was next to buzz out of the radio. He was the urban version of The Lone Ranger, a relative, in fact, named Britt Reid, who published a newspaper called The Daily Sentinel. The parallels of shtick were obvious: Silver/Black Beauty, Tonto/Kato, secret silver mine/secret door in bedroom closet, silver six-guns/gas gun, law enforcement/ journalism, silver bullets/secret seal ring, and so on down the line. Why change what works?

I loved the character on radio and in the comics as well, having encountered both at approximately the same time–about 1946. The sense of shared mystery that a kid found so much fun on the Hornet radio series carried over nicely into the Harvey Comics of the 40s. Major penman the likes of Kubert and Powell could be found amid the anonymous freelancers. The non-Hornet comic book stories were equally fun, with such top contributors as Simon & Kirby and Andriola doing the back-up stories.

One of the coolest things about the comic books were the ads–these neat ads for other Harvey books such as Black Cat, Joe Palooka, Kerry Drake and company, had such a beckoning aura-it made you want to read those comics, believe me. I don't recall ever buying a Kerry Drake, Detective Comic, but it wasn't because I didn't want to . . . there were never enough dimes to go around. In those ads one could find a subscription giveaway portrait of The Green Hornet (free in '46, hundreds of dollars now), and in #36, an ad for The Hornet's Model City buildings, which came with the small-size cereal boxes of Wheaties, Kix, and Cheerios.

The comic book was never as successful as the show, of course. The radio series ran, off and on, from 1936 to the early '50s, with the comics limited to a basic forty-seven issue run from 1940 to 1949, and a '50s one-shot. I remember small format books drawn by Whitman's Robert Weisman and Erwin Hess, too, and in fact still have my treasured Green Hornet Cracks Down big little book. I can recall being mesmerized by the look of the old car on the book's spine, thinking that was how Black Beauty must appear. The character was well-portrayed on screen in a 1939 and 1940 chapter play. The first, whose chapters were thankfully allowed to lapse into the public domain, starred Gordon Jones, whose voice proved so unlike the radio Hornet's that Universal brought Al Hodge in to overdub the voice track. Warren Hull, who had played The Spider in '38, was the second serial Hornet. I guess it isn't that much of a stretch from arachnid to wasp. It was one of the best radio character serials ever released.

It's amazing what instant memory triggers comic books can be. I was fascinated by undersea doings, (Land of the Lost was among my all-time favorite comics and radio shows) and the splash panel inside Green Hornet Comics #31, probably one of the first comics I have memory of reading, which shows the Hornet in the tentacles of a giant cephalopod, his mask still firmly in place, as the bad guy watches through a porthole.

Captain Midnight, Superman, and Tom Mix

Childhood summers were always too short, and the fallbrought with it the ordeal of having to return to jail-er-school! There was an up side. One got to see friends one hadn't seen, and all of the great radio shows returned from summer hiatus. I'd hurry home from school in the early fall to shoot hoops until around 5:15, when the big three shows came on Mutual: Captain Midnight, Superman, and Tom Mix.

Captain Midnight had been created by the Burtt-Moore writing team who did all the old aviation hero shows: The Air Adventures of Jimmie Allen, Hop Harrigan, Sky King, Johnny Nitehawk, etc. Midnight was my favorite character of all the serials, although Sky King offered the best premiums. Nearly every kid I knew listened to the show religiously, badgering moms for Ovaltine so they could send for the decoders, rings, and shake-up mugs.

I also read the comic book, which became–in the late 40s–one of the least memorable of the radio comics. I don't know who drew him in the later 40s, and don't really want to know, as the Fawcett books of those years lost touch with who he was–depicting Midnight as a superhero who had a batwing thing under each arm that permitted him to fly–not so in the early comics.

Midnight, who hit the airwaves in 1938, first appeared in books like The Funnies and Popular, with Mac Raboy's brooding Captain Midnight squinting through the crosshaired sights of a Ma Deuce (.50 machine gun), about to squeeze Tojo straight to hell. Most premium fans know the famous Raboy artwork of the good Captain at the controls of his fighter, preparing to power-dive on the enemy, as he speaks into the mike of his two-way radio. The same art adorned the cover of the first Captain Midnight Secret Squadron Handbook, and the first Whitman big little book of the three-title series.

Erwin L. Hess drew Midnight, and such house agency artists as Don Digman drew him for the Wander company, Leo Burnette, Blackett-Sample, et al. By 1970, I owned the largest collection of Midnight memorabilia; hundreds of items, including all the comics, and there are probably seventy or more unlisted titles if one counts foreign books, '40s comic strips, and all those killer premiums. I even had Wally Capel's prototype art for the Midnight radio goodies that were on the drawing board when NBC aired a puppet show on infant television, and–as Capel told me–"Howdy Doody virtually killed radio, overnight." Personally, I think it was an assisted suicide. By 1949, the juvenile radio block, and many comics of the period, were beginning to blow big time.

The End of the Radio Comics Era

Sgt. Preston of the Yukon, Straight Arrow, and Big Town, as long as we're talking about the hero-come lately shows and comics–signaled the end of the era.

Preston began on radio in 1947. The comic book was published starting in '51, and ran in thirty-three issues counting mini-books, intermittently published by Dell through the end of the '50s. The radio show was still on the air, barely, in 1955, when print, radio and TV offered the famous square-inch of Yukon land, one of the most successful premium promotions ever aired.

There was that mysterious aura to Preston comics that so many kids of the early 50s recall–the art may not have been spectacular, but the look was "way cool" by consensus. It was a realistically drawn book, with satisfying vistas of the Klondike, and the same youngster who built a Yukon Trail from Quaker Oats box backs could transport to Gold Rush Country and the action-filled exploits of Preston and that ultimate lead dog, Yukon King.

Straight Arrow, a late '40s-to-mid-'50s oddity, was brought to radio by Nabisco, who gave away everything from war drums to rings shaped like Steve Adams' secret Magic Cave. Fred Meagher, who'd drawn some of the premiums, Powell, and even–in a couple of issues–Frazetta, drew the fifty-five 1950s comic books, which were collectible for their nifty cereal premium ads. John Belfi drew the '50s strip.

Big Town definitely deserves an honorable mention, even though it's a silver age radio show (technically a soap opera), and comic book, because everybody who heard the program and/or read the comic loved it, the author included.

I asked cartoonist Jim Scancarelli, who writes and draws the Gasoline Alley strip, what was it about this 1950s radio comic that made it so special? What was the big deal about Big Town Comics?

"You're talking about a comic book that really stayed in my mind," Scancarelli said, "because of the way the action was conveyed, the sense of danger; I still remember some panels where Steve Wilson is battling a mad bomber up on a high ledge. He's trying to grab a rope and swing on it or something, and the scene looked just the way one might imagine it from listening to the radio. I'll tell you, it was exciting stuff!"

That sums it up about radio comics. That's exactly what we found in those pages . . . exciting stuff.

The Annual Sotheby's Comic Book and Comic Art Auction

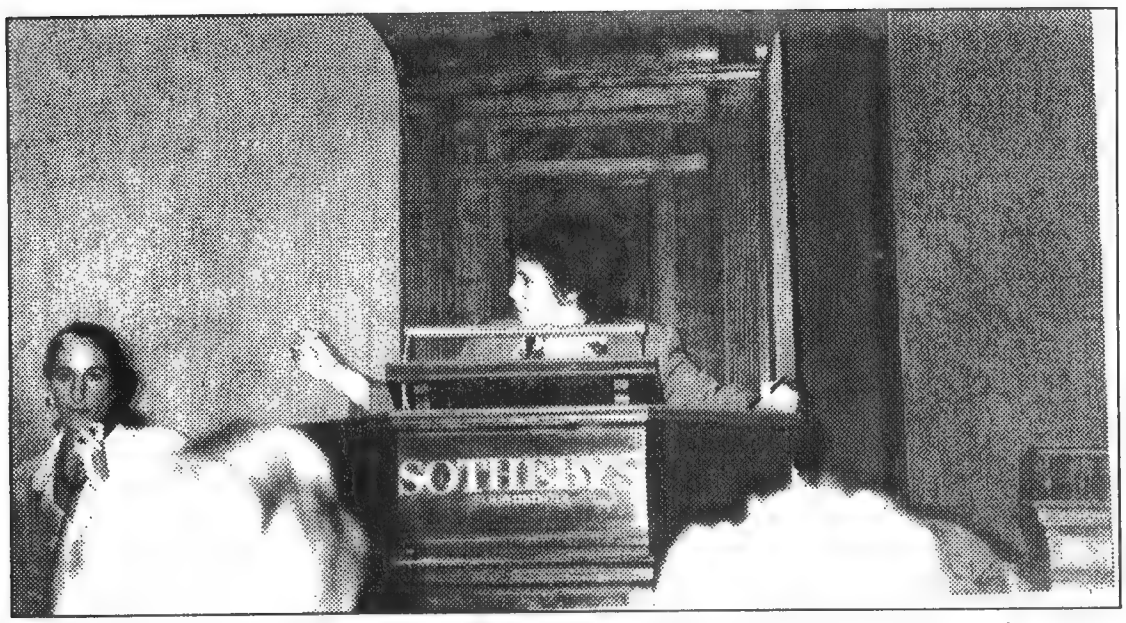
By James Cangialosi

The room filled with collectors awaiting the clock to strike 10:15 to usher in the beginning of the annual Sotheby's comic book and comic art auction. This year's assortment of comic collectibles being auctioned included lots of near mint file copies of comic books from Western Publishing, Murphy Anderson's collection of comic books, artwork from Jack Kirby and the original artwork from the Superman Daily #1. The auction was divided into two sessions. The first session focused on items from the silver age, and the second had pieces from the golden age, including toys and comic strip art. The auction attendees were eager to acquire some of these rare items and in some instances produced some unexpected prices for which the pieces were sold.

The auction began with Gold Key and Dell comic books being offered from the files of Western Publishing Company. Lots consisted of near complete runs of Magnus Robot Fighter, Doctor Solar, Turok: Son of Stone, and books featuring Hanna-Barbera and Walt Disney characters. All of the books in these lots were graded from very fine to near mint condition. After personally examining many of these books I found them to be quite exceptional copies which would make an outstanding addition to anyone's collection. Final prices for various Gold Key comic books were $2,500 for a lot containing near mint issues of Magnus Robot Fighter (Nos. 6, 9-42 and 45) along with a near complete run of Doctor Solar (also in near mint condition), and $2,250 for a lot containing such television science fiction classics as Star Trek (Nos. 2-6, 8-50, 52-61), Land of the Giants (Nos. 1-5), and My Favorite Martian (Nos. 1-9). Other auction lots of Gold Key books included runs of Dark Shadows and Ripley's Believe It or Not. The Dell comic books being offered included Turok: Son of Stone (Nos. 3-7, 9, 11-29, 30-45, 47-54, 56-90, 92-130) in near mint condition which sold for $3,000, and a set of near mint Twilight Zone books which sold for $1,000. Auction lots featuring Disney characters brought varying final bids. Groups of books which contained issues of Mickey Mouse Magazines in very fine condition were sold at prices ranging from $4,000 to $7,500, while a group of about 174 Uncle Scrooge books went for $4,250 which was above the estimated value of $1,500-2,000. Sets of books which featured the Hanna-Barbera characters that were auctioned included the Flintstones, the Jetsons, Top Cat and Space Ghost. The Western file copies were sold at such an astounding rate that it seems collectors are finally realizing the potential that the Dell and Gold Key books have as investments.

The auction had numerous pieces of comic art being offered from such notable talents as Carl Barks, Frank Frazetta, Jack Kirby, Steve Ditko, Murphy Anderson, John Romita, Dick Ayers, Carmine Infantino and Barry Smith. Many who attended the auction hoped to walk away with one of the various Marvel cover recreations by Kirby and Ayers. Many of these pieces quickly sold at prices above the estimated values, and showed just how much an influence the legend of Jack Kirby will always have on the industry. The works included recreated covers to Amazing Fantasy #15 (sold for $9,500), The Amazing Spider-Man #1 (sold for $13,000), Fantastic Four #1 (sold for $6,500), Journey into Mystery #83 (sold for $8,000) and X-Men #1 (sold for $4,250). Many of Kirby's fans bid voraciously for the recreated cover to Strange Tales #89 (sold for $5,000) which showcased Fin Fang Foom. Collectors did not pay as much attention to the other artists works as they did with Kirby's. Carl Barks' oil painting of Donald Duck, Uncle Scrooge and the nephews entitled The Golden Fleece sold for $70,000 which was below the estimated $75,000 to $100,000 price tag. Another of Barks' paintings, An Embarrassment of Riches, was passed on at a bid of $24,000. One of the surprises of the auction was the attention given to the work of Barry Smith and John Verpoorten from Conan #1. The original artwork for the cover to Conan #1 sold for $12,000 which surpassed its estimated value of $4,000-$6,000, and the complete twenty page story of Conan #1 sold for the estimated $10,000. The works of Murphy Anderson which were sold included the cover art to Mystery in Space #20 for $2,500, Strange Adventures #142 for $1,900, and Mystery in Space #73 for $4,000. It is becoming more and more evident that the original works of comic book artists are drawing larger groups of collectors hoping to own a one of a kind piece of comic history.

The auction had runs of numerous silver age comics up for sale. Collectors of silver age Marvel and D.C. Comics had the opportunity to bid on near complete runs of their favorite titles. Groups of Marvel comic books which



This year's assortment of comic collectibles being auctioned included lots of near mint file copies of comic books from Western Publishing, collections of Murphy Anderson comic books, artwork from Jack Kirby and the original artwork from the Superman Daily *#1. sold included the Amazing Spider-Man (Nos. 15-75) flagship series in very fine condition for $3,750, the Avengers (Nos. 1-150) flagship series, Annuals (1-15), and Giant Size (1-5) in very good condition for $2,000, Fantastic Four (Nos. 11-95) in very fine condition for $3,500 and Tales to Astonish (Nos. 35-102) in fine condition for $2,250. Single issues of silver age Marvel which sold included Amazing Fantasy #15 in very fine condition for $7,500, Amazing Spider-Man #1 in very fine condition for $16,000 and in fine condition for $5,000, Fantastic Four #1 and Annual #1 in very fine condition for $6,500 and a very good copy of Fantastic Four #1 for $1,500, and a very fine copy of X-Men #1 from the Bethlehem collection for $4000. In the D.C. category exceptional copies of the Atom, Flash, Green Lantern, Hawkman, and Showcase were being offered. These books, among others, came from the collection of Murphy Anderson. Final sales of groups of D.C. comic books in very fine condition included $3,500 for The Atom (Nos. 1-17, 19-20, 22-30, 32, 34, 36 and 38 including Showcase Nos. 34, 35 and 36), seventy-eight issues of The Flash (including Showcase Nos. 14 and 15) for $6000, Green Lantern (Nos. 2, 3, 6-7, 9-38, 40-42, 43-45, 47-56, 59, 62-70, and 73-75) for $3,250, and eighty-eight issues of Strange Adventures for $5,000. As always the high grade silver age books were sought after by collectors and brought in prices above their estimated values.

The second session of the auction featured items from the golden age, and showcased a wide variety of comic art. Single issues which brought in high final prices included Action Comics #1 in very fine condition for more than $54,000, and Detective Comics #27 in very good condition for over $48,000. Other books which were being offered included Detective Comics #38 in good condition for an estimated value of $1,000-1,500, Batman #1 in very good condition for $1,500-2,000 (sold for over $6,000), Captain America #1, from the collection of Murphy Anderson, for $5,000-6,000 (sold for more than $16,000) and Marvel Comics #1, also from the Anderson collection, for $6,000-9,000 (sold for more than $17,000). Groups of golden age books which were being offered from the collection of Murphy Anderson included More Fun Comics (Nos. 54, 57, 58, 60, 61 and 68 in very good condition) for the estimated value of $2,000-3000, Flash Comics (#1, fine; #5, good; and #8, good) for $2,000-3,000, All-Flash Quarterly (Nos. 1, 4 and 5 all in very good condition) for $1,000-1,500 and a group of twenty Jungle Comics for $1,000-$1,500.

The auction gave collectors the opportunity to acquire some truly rare pieces of comic art associated with the golden age. One of the most interesting pieces was the original artwork to the Superman Daily #1 by Joe Shuster. The artwork consisted of three panels each of which featured a different aspect of Superman's origin. The first panel shows the spaceship carrying the infant Superman away from the exploding Krypton, the second panel shows a young Clark Kent outrunning a train, and the final panel shows a flying Superman. According to Sotheby's it is believed that these three panels were part of a five panel strip, where panels two and three were removed from the sequence to be used in Action Comics #1. Being offered along with these panels were sketches of Superman from Joe Shuster's sketchbook. This entire set was being auctioned at an estimated value of $80,000-90,000. Other examples of Superman artwork which was being auctioned included a 1976 cover recreation of Action Comics #1 by Joe Shuster ($7,000-10,000), the original artwork for the recreated cover to Superman #1 ($15,000-25,000) also by Shuster, and the original artwork to the cover of Action Comics #50 ($15,000-20,000) by Fred Ray. Drawings by Bob Kane which featured Batman were also available to fans of his work. An original drawing of Batman by Kane which was featured in his book Batman and Me, was estimated to be sold at price ranging from $10,000-15,000. Another drawing by Kane which was estimated at a value of $1,500-2,000 showcased Batman and Robin along with their enemies the Joker, Penguin, Catwoman and Clayface. Another unique item from the golden age which was being offered was a drawing of Hourman and Jimmy Martin by Bernard Baily which was hoped to sell for $1,000-1,500.

Fans of Greg and Tim Hildebrandt were able to bid on numerous pieces of their work which featured characters from the Marvel Universe. The Hildebrandt brothers seem to be able to take the most important characteristics of the characters and exploit them in such a way that it gives the heroes and villains a lifelike appearance. These paintings were given estimated values ranging from $1,000-2,500.

If you are a collector or a fan of comic books and comic art you should make a point of attending one of the auctions, or at least the public viewings of the items being offered. The auction has opened up a new outlet for this genre and given it a greater degree of credence as a hobby and a profession. Take advantage of all that is available to you when exploring the world of comics and let your imagination soar.

Price Guide Nuttiness 1994

By Dr. J. Keith Contarino

Well, the big guide is out (why does the "annual" guide come out in April, not January?), and there are a lot of interesting items of note. As you all know, last year's guide had many items that bordered on insanity. This year–well, you be the judge.

I have ranted and raved that we needed to drop prices on most lower grade books for the last three years, especially silver age. On newer books, I don't think there should be any price for good or fine as, with few exceptions, new books below very fine are valueless. Well, on the surface at least, it appears low grade prices on much silver have indeed dropped (yea!) But every silver age cloud has a dark lining, so let's look at some specifics.

In general, low grade key books–both Marvel and DC–have been pretty easy to sell. Over the last year, we have sold good copies of Daredevil #1; Avengers 1; Showcase 4, 17, 22; Fantastic Four #1; Amazing Fantasy 15 and the like, in good to very good condition, usually at or above guide (with the exception of very good Avengers #1, which do have to be discounted). What we have had huge resistance to are low grade copies of non-key silver age and virtually no sales of low grade later '60s books.

At present, we have customers waiting for low grade copies of most key Marvels and ten cent DC keys. With that in mind, let's look at a few examples, Marvel first.

When you talk Marvel, you have to start with Spider-Man. No. 1 went up about 6% in good and almost doubled in near mint. Terrific. This is very accurate, as this book should escalate in all grades, but much higher in near mint. Let's look at a couple of others. No. 7 is the toughest sell in any grade of the early Spider-Mans, with the possible exception of #10, which is conveniently lumped in price with #7. In good, these two books went up 11%, in fine 11%, and in near mint 11%. That's a little strange. They have consistently been harder to sell in good-fine, yet they escalate at the same rate as in near mint and they go up in good at a higher rate than does #1! No. 14, a bona fide key, has gotten very easy to move at guide in low grade because it's gotten very pricey in high grade. Let's see what it did. In good, it dropped 20%, in fine it dropped 20%, and in near mint it went up 14%. Curious. Okay, let's look at a really tough Spider-Man to sell below very fine but easy in true high grade, #50. Good, up 9%; fine up 10%; near mint up 9%. Huh? What's going on here? It goes up more in fine than in near mint? It goes up in good and near mint at the same rate? I'm confused.

Let's look at something really silly. Spider-Man #300. As ridiculous as it may be that anyone would pay $65 for this book in near mint, people actually do, so I have no problem with this book going from $50 to $65 in near mint, a 30% increase. However, last year I made fun of any price guide listing a two-year-old book at $6.70 in good, and guess what they did this year? Yup, Spider-Man 300 went up! 34% in good! Just to make sure, I checked with numerous friends who have stores, and they all assured me this book is basically valueless in good.

I know people reading this are saying I'm just nit-picking on a few books, but you can look at almost any title and see utter lunacy. A few very brief examples: Fantastic Four #48 has been red hot in all grades; it went down 19% in good, down 37% in fine; and up to 15% in near mint. Fantastic Four #29 and #30, definitely not hot, went up 10% in good; up 7% in NM. Another example of a book that's dead going up at a quicker rate in good than near mint. Confusing? Let's look at Daredevil. I'm sure there's some nuttiness on this title, too. Let's see. No. 1, which has been a good seller this year, went down 13% in good; down 13% in fine; and up 11% in near mint. Okay, there may be legitimate reasons for these occurrences. Daredevils in general are harder to sell in low grade, even #1, especially with white covers. But, by golly, what's this? No. 4, which also has a white cover and certainly is in less demand across the board than #1, actually went up 20% in good; up 22% in fine, and up 69% in near mint. I'll buy the near mint, but the other two grades? Okay, you say, #4 is a good book and in high demand in certain areas of the country, and this is reflected in across-the-board increases. Fine. That may be true, but why, then, didn't #7, which is the easiest sell of any Daredevil, save #1, also increase across the board? It went down 31% in good, down 20% in fine; and up a paltry 13% in near mint.

My point on all this? There's no consistency here. It reminds me of something I saw in a certain financial magazine. I used to subscribe for the same reason most people buy price guides. I wanted information and knowledge I did not have. I trusted and believed what I read until I saw listed in one issue that the average veterinarian's salary was $117,000 and was linked with that of airline pilots. Now, I don't know what airline pilots make, but I do know that vets average around one-half the quoted figure. Furthermore, the accurate number is easy to find, as it's published yearly in Veterinary Economics and The Journal of American Veterinary Medicine. When I saw a number that I knew had to be inaccurate, it immediately made me question everything else the magazine said. The same here. For a price guide, any price guide, to be believable, it can't have the kind of mind-boggling inconsistencies pointed out above. How can I, for example, trust the reported trend published for books like Daredevil #51-100, Fantastic Four #68-95 or Spider-Man #88, when the books I know about, like Daredevil #4 and 7, are wholly inaccurate in comparison?

I don't mean to dwell on Marvel, even though that accounts for most silver age activity. Let's take a look at the best selling DC silver age title, Showcase, and examine the first 24 issues, all ten centers. I would be the first to agree that there has been price resistance to low grade Showcases, with the exception of some keys. I have seen more mid-grade resistance on the expensive Showcase keys, especially #4 and #22. On the non-keys, I absolutely agree good prices should drop and near mint prices continue to rise. Fine prices should decrease, remain the same, or increase on a book-to-book basis.

Let's see what actually happened. No. 4 went up 2% in good, 2% in fine and doubled in near mint. They added a very fine price at three times that of fine. Terrific! I absolutely agree on all prices on this book. They accurately reflect the market. Good! Very good copies are still sellable at reasonable prices. Fine copies are easy to find, and very fines are very, very tough and should be around triple what are being sold as fines. So, let's look at a few more Showcases No. 6–the first Challengers has been hard for us to find in any grade, and the only low grade I had sold easily at guide. It went down an incredible 33% in good, 45% in fine! And went up 43% in near mint. Sorry, I don't buy this, but I could be wrong. How about #9, a book that I think most people would agree sells well in all grades and is virtually nonexistent in high grade. It went up a paltry 8% in good, 8% in fine and 34% in near mint. Well, at least it went up some in all grades. How about #17 and #22, two easy sellers in low grades, as high grades are, again, nearly impossible to find. They both went down in good and fine (26%, 18% and 26%, 20% respectively) and up 46% and 47% in near mint. Well, okay, let's give them the benefit of the doubt. Maybe I've been lucky to sell the low grade #17s and #22s I've had recently. Let's look at the second and third appearances of these characters (I assume everyone reading this knows #17 is the first Adam Strange and #22 the first Green Lantern). Nos. 18 and 19 both went up in good and fine (32%, 13% and 32%, 24%) and up in near mint (52% and 79%, respectively). Is anyone else as confused as I am? It's bad enough the last update had #19 higher than #18 in near mint, but now even if anyone bought that, this price guide is trying to tell us that #18 goes up at a higher rate than #19 in good and fine, but slower in near mint. Huh? They've done the same thing with #23 and #24. No. 24 especially is very, very, hard to sell in low grade and always has been.

IT'LL TAKE MORE THAN ROPES TO KEEP MISTER FANTASTIC OUT OF ACTION!

Yet, inexplicably, not only do they both go up in good and fine (remember #6 did not), but #24 goes up at a higher rate!

There's nuttiness in other Showcases also. No. 57 goes up in good, #55 goes down. No. 43 goes down in good; #60 goes up. No. 30 goes down in good; #33 goes up! No. 37–the first Metal Men stays the same in good, #38 goes up 31%, #39 and #40 go down.

What about other well-known DCs? Well, Brave & Bold #25, tough to find, easy to sell in all grades, goes down 24% in good, down 22% in fine, and only goes up 10% in near mint. No. 28, another Key, likewise goes down in good and fine; yet #29 and #30–notorious hard sells in low grade–both go up in good (2%, 1%), up in fine (22%, 1%). Then we have #31, which is very difficult to find in any grade, accurately going up across the board, but almost as fast in fine (44%) as in near mint (46%). This defies all logic. Adventure #210 goes down in good and fine; Action #252 (far easier to find in low grade) goes up.

I haven't had time to look at golden age closely, but I did notice that Superman #1 went up 17% in very fine, but only 8% in near mint. Batman #1 went up 17% in very fine also, but only 7.5% in near mint. Action #1 went up 35% in both good and fine, but only 24% in very fine and 20% in near mint. Admittedly, I've never had unrestored near mint copies of any of these books, but since there are only a few in existence, we all see the published prices when they do sell, and I find it incredible that Key golden age goes up at a more rapid rate in low to mid grade than in high grade. If this is true, why did All American #16 go up 16% in good but 25% in near mint? Again, where's the consistency?

Am I trying to say all the prices in the guide are wrong? Of course not. In all fairness, any price guide is a monumental undertaking, and mistakes will be made. My criticism is not based on individual mistakes, however, but a seeming lack of logic in pricing structure.

I want the guides to be accurate. I want people to be able to confidently pick up a guide and have a good idea as to the value of most comics. This is good for our hobby and business. But, it simply is not happening. We see dead books going up every month. We have new books going up in good but not near mint. We have Key silver going down in grade but non-Keys going up, etc.

Nothing would make me happier than to see an accurate, logical price guide.

The Shadow Knows... And So Does the Collector

By David T. Alexander

By the time you read this, you will have either seen or heard about the new Shadow movie. From all indications, it looks like it has the potential to be a winner. The film's popularity will be determined shortly. However, the popularity of the Shadow has been strong for over six decades!!

Of all the characters that appeared in the pulps, none was more popular or more influential than the Shadow. In the '30s and '40s, the Shadow was America's major fictional character. The mystique of this capped hero captivated the interest and imagination of legions of Americans, both male and female.

Most people think that the Shadow began as a pulp character, but that is not the case. Street and Smith was a publishing giant whose success with dime novels continued into pulps as that format evolved. Their main titles were Western Story and Detective Story Weekly, both of which had origins in the dime novel field. Always innovative, the publishers were constantly seeking new ways to get their name in front of the public.

By the late '20s, radio was a major entertainment medium. Street and Smith had developed a radio program which featured programs based on stories from Detective Story Weekly. Concurrent to this another of their dime novel to pulp format titles, Fame and Fortune, had a lead story titled, "The Shadow Over Wall Street". The lead character in this 1929 story was a mystery man who fought crime. This concept produced favorable response and the decision makers at Street and Smith chose to use this nebulous character as the announcer on the radio program. Seeing the potential benefits of a continuing character, the Shadow soon became the narrator of the radio program stories.

Street and Smith soon realized what they had and rushed to print the first issue of the Shadow Magazine. This was almost an ash can. In their haste to copyright the character, they didn't secure a cover for the famous first issue which was printed in April 1931. Looking through their archives, the editors located the painting that had been used on the October, 1919 issue of the Thrill Book, which is itself a very rare pulp. The cover featured an oriental villain. Walter Gibson who had been contracted to write the first story was forced to add an oriental villain in order to make the story have some relation to the cover.

The pulp was an overwhelming success and quickly sold out. It originated as a quarterly but soon went to a monthly and in about 18 months was appearing twice a month.

The Shadow of the early radio programs was described as a tall, thin, blonde, 40-year-old crime fighter, with a cobra tattooed on his chest. Walter Gibson changed many of these concepts in the pulp stories. Coming from a background in journalism and professional magic, Gibson always portrayed the Shadow as a mystery man. In the early stories, very little is revealed about the background or identity of the Shadow. There is no doubt that he is a steadfast crime fighter and top notch gunman.

Gibson's method of writing really drew the fans. As time went by, he revealed more and more about the Shadow–his background, his powers and his knowledge. Almost every story was an excellent mystery. Very rarely was the focus of an issue a pure adventure or action story. The Shadow had a variety of agents who worked with him. However, his group was not a team concept like we see in Fantastic Four or X-Men.

Lamont Cranston is generally thought to be the Shadow's alter ego. Walter Gibson knew how to keep his audience on the edge of their seats and in the 1937 novel, The Shadow Unmasked, revealed that the Shadow was in reality Kent Allkard. As a World War I ace, Allard was shot down by the Germans. He used disguises and night time tricks to terrorize the enemy. After the war, he faked his death so he could drop out of society and return as a crime fighter. At this point, the Shadow made contact with Cranston and arranged to use his identity on occasion. This secret identity situation is much more complex than we find in any of the comic book super heroes.

By the early '40s, comic books became the rage. Street and Smith saw another opportunity for increased sales and put their most popular characters into four colors. Both the comic and the pulp versions coexisted for almost a decade. Even though the comic stories followed the same general concepts as the pulps, they didn't pack the same punch as the pulps. Age groups targeted by the comics were a bit younger than those aimed at by the pulps.

While being one of the most famous and popular characters in American fiction and possibly the best known radio character of all time, the Shadow has given us plenty of material to collect.

Shakin' The Bushes

Are You Taking Them With You?

By Jack Mallette

During my travels across this great country of ours, I never cease to be amazed at the similarity of collectors and what drives them. Their passions, their motivations, and ultimately, their collections turn out to be amazingly similar.

Whenever I'm contacted by someone from another part of the country wanting to sell their collection, usually a few brief general descriptions suffice to cover all the necessary bases for me: "It's mostly '60s D.C.s and Marvels, some Dells, a few Gold Keys, most in fine or better condition," or "Late '60s through early '80s most pretty well-read, some in fine to mint." That sort of thing.

After checking the condition of a few key books that I know will be present in a particular offering, there are usually very few surprises.

I have also found that collectors universally like to play the same while-away-the-hours-in-a-shop collector games, like "Who's Stronger," Superman or Hulk? Naw, man, Galactus 'll cream both of 'em! And each collector trots out his or her favorite hero, entering them into the fray like combatants in some cosmic fantasy jousting tournament.

Most people also respond willingly when asked about the "Best Item" in their collection. There are some occasional surprises here, but most responses are fairly typical, say a fine or better run of Amazing Spider-Man, or Fantastic Four #1 in near mint. Yeah, right, snow white cover, too, I'll bet.

The one I like the most is "Best Find." A collector is asked to list his or her best find of all time, and this almost never includes their "Best Deal," or the deal that netted them the most, value-wise. The answers are as varied as the collectors giving them.

One collector I met at a show sold me some of the most absolutely perfect condition late 60s to mid-70's Key Marvels I'd ever seen. When I pried just a little and asked why he was selling such gorgeous books, he said that they were too nice to keep. It turns out his uncle had just remarried a woman whose son had died several years ago, and when she found out that this young man collected comics, she offered him all he wanted from this collection. Now he was selling just a handful of what he took to finance a trip to Europe between his freshman and sophomore years in college.

For this young collector, the comics were not the end itself, but the means to an end. He had a clear understanding of the fact that these beautiful books were his to be guardian of for only a short time, that they would more than likely exist on this earth far beyond his allotted span and that he wasn't going to be able to take them where he was going.

Not so, according to a collector who plans to take them with him.

You'd better sit down for this one.

One of the questions I frequently ask is, what steps has a person taken to make sure his collection and its particular "situation" are taken care of? What have you done to provide for your collection in the event of a catastrophe? What happens to your beloved toys once, heaven forbid, you pass on?

Far too often the answer is a flat "uh, nothing, I suppose," accompanied by the appropriate blank expression, as if even considering the fact has blown a fuse inside somewhere.

Sometimes I'm pleasantly surprised when, not only is this person's collection insured against damage and theft, but he's also made final arrangements as well.

But I was totally unprepared for this one response to my question:

"I plan to take them with me."

"Pardon?"

We had just been talking about his near mint run of All-Star Comics that he had put together in the 1960s. Knowing that he wasn't married and had no known children, I was naturally curious. Surely he didn't mean . . .

He did.

He looked me squarely in the eye, and flashing a devilish grin, said "I've made arrangements with my attorney to have my entire collection cremated along with me, and buried along with my ashes. We've covered all the bases, and there's no way anyone can countermand my wishes."

Then and there I finally understood the meaning of the word flabbergasted. I was utterly speechless.

"I'm still not sure if there's an afterlife," he said, "but if there is, I'm going to need something to read."

Do comics have souls? Do they pass on to the hereafter when cremated? Or are they, as I strongly suspect, just ashes?

The theological implications were just too staggering, and it was my turn to have the blown fuse. Strong resuscitatory measures were called for, so I went and found the biggest, nastiest double-decker pralines and cream ice cream cone I could find. On a waffle cone, for good measure.

Welcome back to the land of the living.

So, what have you done to insure the care of your collection?

Uh, nothing, I suppose, right? I thought so.

Here are a few basic recommendations on the care and feeding of your comic collection.

First and foremost, bag them! I know, too expensive, too time consuming, all those nasty migratory additives turning my mint beauties into so much toxic waste. Woe is me, what to do, what to do!

Well, consider my painful experience: a while back we had some water seep in under the basement floorboards after a tremendous downpour, and I didn't notice it for a few days. This was long enough for the water to seep into the comic boxes on the floor, through the bottom, and into the books. The boxes in question contained two or three collections' worth of D.C.s that had accumulated. They had been sorted and alphabetized, but that was all.

These were the "A" boxes; Action, Adventure, etc. and a box of "S," Superman, Strange Adventures, etc.

All the loose comics were wet from the middle of the book down. All the comics in those nasty old yellow and green PVC looking bags were dry as a bone. Those sweet, heaven-sent grungy three-cent bags had done the job. Thank God and Robert Bell.

And the insurance? Turns out that I didn't have a specific rider covering flood damage from an outside source. My homeowner's policy did not cover all contingencies, as my ex-insurance agent had assured me. Check yours to make sure it does. Most will only cover damage caused by busted pipes, and then for only the cover price of the comic. Shocked? Don't be. You didn't really think you were in good hands, did you? That's just advertising, and it's meant to sell you something, like an insurance policy.

Sour grapes? A little. Plus a lot of feeling stupid for my complacency. Since then I've done some investigating, and I've found out that there are several insurance agencies that are carving out a nice little niche for themselves insuring collections for collector value. And they don't even require an exact, itemized inventory list updated hourly, like some of the other companies do. For some, a video walk through will suffice for verifications, especially in the event of a fire.

I would recommend buying one of those small Sentry fireproof safes to store the video in, along with other items. Mine contains all the negatives for family photos. The pictures can be replaced, if you have the negatives. The negatives can't.

Also, be sure and check the seal on the safe's hinge when you buy it, preferably before you take it out of the store. I've seen several with defective, "gapped" hinges, and these are worthless in a raging fire.

Yet by far the most talked-about subject when these topics are considered is inheritance. What steps, if any, have you taken to insure that your loved ones will dispose of (a brutal term, to be sure, but accurate) your collection(s) properly? First and foremost, who inherits what? You may only be 18 years old and just have a box or two of nice comics, but you must start considering these things, nonetheless.

Get a will. If your family has an attorney, go ahead and use him. Or you might want to use one of the various "will kits" available nowadays. Whichever, just do it. And if you still doubt the necessity of this step, go look up the word "intestate" in the dictionary.

If you are the husband and father, and you have a valuable collection of anything that your spouse does not share, the time has come to make arrangements accordingly. Or have you forgotten the last time she made a wisecrack about having a garage sale after you're gone? I suspect she wasn't kidding.

It's easy for you to glance at the various items in your collection, even the most obscure ones, and know not only their general value, but who might be interested in buying them should you meet a sudden demise.

But your spouse hasn't a clue. It's all paper and pewter and pressed tin to them–in short, just stuff to get rid of, and if they can get a few bucks for them, great. If not, hey, it's time to move on anyway.

Some collectors have made arrangements with local dealers to be contacted by their survivors when the time comes. This is often a crapshoot at best, but sometimes it's the only alternative.

Other collectors have a club with a built-in support system established just for this contingency, usually through the auction method. Again, a crapshoot, but better than the alternative.

The method to find the most intriguing is when two collector friends make arrangements between themselves to have the other dispose of their collection for them. The surviving spouses are made aware of the arrangement, and it is usually put in writing. Sometimes an attorney is called upon for services in this instance but be careful of trod-upon feelings.

There is also no logical reason why this arrangement wouldn't work among three or four collectors, but since most of the collectors I've talked to who have this arrangement include a ten percent override in goods or cash for the surviving collector(s), this could get a little dicey.

So, spell it all out beforehand, in writing, and have your survivors witness the deal. You will all sleep much better at night.

Imagine, if you will: you are a small-time collector/dealer minding your own business one fine day when the phone rings. It's an attorney representing the estate of a man who died and left behind a large selection of old comic books. How old, you ask. He's not sure, but they're all ten cent cover price. What's the condition of the books, you wonder. He's no comic book collector, he's just the family's attorney trying to reap a small windfall from something that would have otherwise been thrown away, but they look pretty good to him. How many books, you inquire. Over twenty thousand, he says. He'd called one other comic book shop already, but the manager said that the owner told him they weren't buying any books that week. Darn shame. Are you interested?

Of course, you're interested, even though you don't have two extra nickels to rub together, the van's falling apart, and you still don't have the table fee for next week's convention. You are, after all, a comic book dealer.

So you make arrangements to view the collection the next day, having already assured yourself that, unless it's the find of the century, you're not going to go any further into debt.

The next day dawns, and you feel a slight twinge of anticipation as you prepare for your meeting. Got to drive a ways up into the hills, though. Here's hoping the van makes it.

It does. You meet. You shake hands. You walk down into the basement while the attorney explains that, because of the size of the collection, the owners feel that the cover price of the books will be sufficient payment. Man's name was Church Edgar Church. He'd saved these books all his life, cared for them like they were his children. He stops. He unlocks the cabinet. He opens the door, and before you even pick up the first book, you've gone a little weak in the knees.

You've entered the Mile High zone.

Hey, it could happen, right?

Be honest, be fair, beware.

Bye!

Frontline Collectibles Sold Report

Let's start off with what has been selling for us over the past couple of ads and shows. Iron Man #1 has become one of our best selling books. After not selling one for what felt like ages, we banged out four of the five we had in stock. The only very fine copy we had at the time went for $225 and we could have sold another one. Also, after selling two very goods at $55 and taking calls for more, we raised our price to $65 and sold another. The animated show will keep the demand high. Another big seller has been Iron Fist #14. We have sold two very goods at $35 and two near mints at $175. We are out of near mint copies and could easily sell more. Also, at one show, three copies sold to dealers at our numbers.

After a surprising slump, Amazing Spider-Man has caught on fire for us in the last couple of months–129's sold at $160 in very fine, $200 in very fine/near mint, and after getting many calls on them, $200 for a very fine copy. A fine copy has yet to move at $100. It seems like any early number in any grade sells. We got $600 for a very fine #6, $260 for a very fine/near mint #50, and $100 for a near mint #51. A very fine #12 had two interested parties at $200, (one went away unhappy). A solid VG/F #40 flew at $60 while a nice #39 in very fine went for $95. Other Spider-Man sales include a fine/very fine #9 for $275, a #25 in very fine for $150, which got three calls, a poor/fair #14 I gave to a good customer for $35 which he turned around and sold for $85, a fair/good #4 for $60 and a very good #20 sold for $60.

Other noteworthy sales include a gentleman who purchased two Conan #1s in fine for $65 each. Batman 200s moved at $80 for two very fines and $35 for a fine. A Detective 359, which no one wants to sell me, fetched $30 in very fine. Brave and the Bold #28 went for $700 in very good.

There are books that I could sell if only someone, somewhere would sell them to me. Some of those include Fantastic Four #52, Detective #359, Plastic Man #1, House of Secrets #61, Strange Tales #110, Showcase #60 and Superboy #68 to name a few.

Books that I have been unable to move include a Batman #155 in good for $25, a Green Lantern #59 in very good for $35.

WANTED — YOUR MARKET TALK!

Collector or dealer, you have a valuable viewpoint. If we print your letter, we will send you a coupon good for 25 free Marketplace listings. Please address your letters to: Comics Source Market Talk, PO Box 2512, Chattanooga, TN 37409. It's not possible to print all letters we receive, and we cannot reply to letters we do not print. In my young life I have yet to sell my only copy of Marvel Feature #1 in fine for $40. Does anyone on this planet besides my partner care about this book? We have trouble moving any book which is a non-key. I did not get any calls for a X-Men #2 in good/very good for $95, which I ended up letting go for $75, nor did I get any calls on a very good copy for $125.

Not only is the boat over for gold and platinum books, it's sunk. I can't even give them away. $10 for Deathmate golds and Predator vs. Magnus platinums is still too much. Superman #500 platinum did not go at $35 and I will be lowering it to $25 in my next ad. A Superman #75 platinum I sold for $95 ignited an argument between my partner and I. He adamantly stated that I had gone too low and that I give stuff away all while his skin color was beet red and steam blew out of his ears. The next one we got, after listening to his bantering about, I advertised for $125. After months with no takers I went back to reality and tagged it $100. I still have it. The only gold/platinum I don't mind having is the Spider-Man platinum which does sell well at $125.

That's all for this month.

The word from Neverwhere

Since you seem to accept legitimate Market Reports for your Tickertape Index, I have compiled a list sales covering the first six months of 1994. All selling dates are the date shipped (since all I do is mail order, there is no other reasonable date to use) and all sales are fully backed by an order form, detailing the sale. I think that there aren't any questionable sales, except the Jetsons #1, which by the way was my first Comic Source sale! Believe me, I did get $200 for that book, as I expected. Many other dealers have told me that Gold Key #1's are difficult to find in high grade and usually command over guide money. I proved them right! I have sold a great deal more than in the report, therefore I narrowed the report to only include "better" books.

And here's my report:

MARVEL/ATLAS/TIMELY

Best sellers are without doubt pre-hero Marvels. Period. This market is going to open up HUGE in the next six months. High grade books in this class are already commanding well over guide and, as I see it, the super hero ends of certain Marvel runs (i.e. T. of S., T. to A., J.I.M. and S.T.) are beginning to stagnate as the "price rush" of the '90s takes its toll. Timely's are out of control! Everyone wants VF+ money for Fine books and 1.5 times NM guide for VF's! Good luck to Captain America Comics collectors at large! As of now, this is (probably) the hottest title from that era. Recent sales are: J.I.M. #65 F $32, #66 F- $32, #68 F+ $36, #69 F+ $36, S.T. #93 and #98 VF- $45 each (too cheap!), T of S #12 F $63, #31 VF+ $81, #34 and $38 VF $68 each, Spider-Man #5 VF+ $550 (had two small Marvel Chips), #17 FVF+ $235, X-Men #1 VG- $500, Fantastic Four #1 and Hulk #1 both in FVF sold for $6,500 cash and trade, Young Allies #6 G+ $54. (note: these sales are included in the current Ticker)

DC

Also selling well are any cheap ($50 to $125) Silver-Age (10 cent cover) DC's in VF and up. These go for NM or better, since they are still hard to find in grade. Major and minor DC Key's sell in VF, but are becoming impossible to find (B&B's and Showcase's under 45 are a prime example!). Golden-Age, what little I come across, usually sells fast, but is a bit slow right now for some reason. Recent sales are B&B #59 VF- $36, #62 VF- $18, #62 VF+ $27, Green Lantern #17 VF+ $80, #18 VF- $58, #43 NM $42, J.L.A. #7 F+ $71, Mystery in Space #62 VF $70, #62 VF- $61, Rip Hunter #8 VF+ $36, Showcase #39 FVF+ $135.

OTHER PUBLISHERS

E.C.'s still sell in high grade. Recent sales are: Extra! #1 VFNM $54, Frontline Combat #8 VF+ $63, Weird Science #12 FVF+ $59, Dark Mysteries #1 F $81, Is This Tomorrow? (10 cent cover) #1 FVF $60, Jetsons (Gold Key) #1 VFNM+ $200, Pep Comics #7 FVF $206, Tales of the Mysterious Traveler #10 VF- $72. I expect to see more activity here, since I recently purchased some high grade books out of the main stream. I'll keep you posted!

A Report From Arizona

I'm writing this the day after Phoenix Con came to fruition with more than 100 dealer tables on the floor and attendance at well above 2,500 people. And oh yes, the temperature was 116 degrees outside!

Silver and Golden Age were definitely cool inside though. We brought lots of runs of various Marvels, such as Amazing Spiderman #'s 15-100 and X-Men #'s 11 and up, but very few takers. Lots of ooohs and ahhhs. What most collectors wanted and requested was, sigh, Image's Gen 13 #1, with 20 copies sold at $15 each. A recent purchase of early Dell Four Color Disney books on display were scoffed at by the kids. One dealer brought a beautiful run of VF Showcases, back to early '60s Rip Hunter's. Not one sale of them did he have!

OK, so what sold? The 20,000 or so books we brought to move at 25 to 50 cents each, that's what. We're finding that at conventions (other than the "big three"), collector's are not discerning, and are looking for screaming deals.

The SA and GA collectors seem to be filtering their way back into the stores, particularly in the Phoenix area. We have culled any VG or less conditioned copy of our core Marvel silver age backstock in the last two months and have packaged the copies in sets at half guide. What great movers they've been.

Since the middle of the spring, we have sold Fantastic Four #'s 6-20 to various collectors, and GVG set of Spidey #'s 1-10 with a G- copy of Amazing Fantasy #15 sold to one regular for $1,500. A F++ copy of Daredevil #1 went for $550, and a VG+ copy of X-Men #1 for $300.

The summer has been a little pokey so far, but out-of-towners are searching for out-of-the-norm books. Recent sales include Harvey Dick Tracy's, Little Lulu's, and the one that throws us, Amazing Spiderman #149, the clone book that fetches up to $50 in mint. Our remaining stock is VG+ or less, which easily moves at $20. Collectors are also on the prowl for anything Jetsons, Flintstones, or, you guessed it, Maverick.

As we said, the summer's been slow so far, but you know it's summer when a young collector comes in and asks and gets for $50 a New Mutants #87. A blast from an easier past. Until next time.

Wow! $50 for a Spidey 149 seems cheap! We've seen them priced as high as $150, with dealers saying they will buy them at $100. I wonder if this is a regional phenomena, or if the trend just hasn't hit Phoenix yet?

The word from North Carolina

Well, it's time once again for my much belated market report. There are lots of exciting things happening, what with the summer show season being upon us, kids are out of school (no more empty store for three months) and lots of announced comic related media events such as Marvel characters in theme parks, The Shadow and The Mask movies and, last but not least, animated series for several Marvel and Image properties.

RECENT (1990-1994)

MARVEL

Several factors including (but, not limited exclusively to) the publishing glut, value packs at large chain stores and of course Marvel Mart have led us to something that a few years ago would have been highly improbable, there aren't any "hot" Marvel titles at the moment. Sure, mutant titles still sell great here new and there is always call for the recent back issues that haven't gone up in price, but there hasn't been a great demand for any one book in a long time.

DC

The DC/Milestone crossover was a huge success here. It created a market for the Milestone titles. Yes folks, what I'm ponderously getting at here is that we now have real live subscribers for titles like Static and Hardware. It's about time!

Batman is selling again, we are sold out of several parts of Knights End. Sorry no premium prices on these yet, though. Green Lantern sales have fallen off a bit these past few months though I will say that we are still moving far more copies than we had been prior to the Emerald Twilight story. Superman/Doomsday sold great but the monthly Superman titles are rapidly approaching pre-Doomsday levels.

Vertigo is still a hit here or to be more accurate the gothic horror Vertigo titles are a hit here. Sandman, Swamp Thing, Shade, Books of Magic and Witchcraft are going consistently both new and as back issues, Doctor Occult was a surprise sell out for us. The super-hero based Vertigo books are not selling however. We can't give away back stock of Kid Eternity or Black Orchid. We regularly hear that both Animal Man and Doom Patrol are "too weird". Sandman Mystery Theater should sell well for us but doesn't, go figure.

Future picks for D.C.? Two words: Zero Hour!!

IMAGE

Jim Lee's boys at Wild Storm have been doing a great job of publicizing the various Wild Storm titles. We are selling more Wild C.A.T.'s now than we ever have. Stormwatch and Deathblow are moving consistently and GEN13 is scorching hot with sales at the following prices: #1/2 $10, #1 $10, #2 $6, #3 & #4 $3 each. We are also looking forward to the release of Wet Works. Sales should be on this one. Spawn is still the best selling Image title but boy am I tire of explaining what happened to issues 19 and 20! The most overrated and overpriced Image book has to be Shadowhawk, we are having trouble moving #1 at $9. The most underpriced Image? Maxx #1 sells fast at $6. Last and least Department...Extreme Studios books. The art is weak, the stories are non-existent and sales are abysmal. We had lopes for Prophet but aren't seeing much enthusiasm for it here yet.

On a side note, the Image "A" books, Prophet #4a, Wild C.A.T.'s #11a, etc. are selling for $10 each, this isn't the highest asking price we've heard but we are selling them.

VALIANT

The Chaos Effect is upon us and I can honestly say that I have seen a slight rise in demand for the Valiant titles. Yes, just slight but, it's still early.

OTHERS

Malibu's Star Trek: Deep Space Nine and Ultraverse are both consistent movers, at the moment, Mantra is leading the pack in the Ultraverse universe.

We are sold out of all Chaos comics! We sold Lady Death #1 at $15, #2 at $10. Shi #1 is going fast at $10.

We have demand and little supply for both Faust and Cry for Dawn.

MARKET TALK

MODERN AGE (1970-1990)

MARVEL

Amazing Spider-Man #149 is the hottest book going at the moment I would wager we could sell 100 of them at $25 each, sadly we don't have them and don't expect to get them at a reasonable price. Uncanny X-Men #'s 94-143 and 266 are as hot as they could be, #266 sells well at $30 but sits at $40. Wolverine is probably our best selling back issue in terms of quantity. Mini series #1 goes at $30. Regular series #1 at $25, #75 is sold out at $8.

DC

'70s Swamp Things are still highly sought after, sold a #1 in Fine condition recently for $40. Ditko Shades are moving real well for us. We are nearly sold out of Jonah Hex back issues (I never thought I could say that). Older Justice League of America issues have picked up recently.

OTHERS

We have been getting an increased demand for some of the black and white comics from the mid '80s, particularly Cerebus and Flaming Carrot, also Vampirella, Creepy, Eerie and Famous Monsters magazines are going as fast as we can get our greedy little hands on them.

SILVER AGE (1955-1969)

Main stream titles from both Marvel and DC are in high demand here while sales are a little slow on titles like Tales of Suspense, Tales to Astonish, Metal Men, Sgt. Rock and Sgt Fury. Key issues are selling like hotcakes in any grade and at premium prices in any grade as can be evidenced by some of our recent sales: Brave and the Bold #28 (coverless) $100, Captain America #100 VG $100, Amazing Spiderman #1 (Fair, spine glued) $1000, Tales of Suspense #1 (good) $140.

GOLDEN AGE (1930-1954)

Any DC, Timely, Fawcett or Fox books sell fast in any grade. I wish we could find more low grade copies to sell, unfortunately most collections that we see are brought to us by non-collectors with no concept of grading, price guide in hand expecting 100% of guide. Some of our recent golden age sales include Comic Cavalcade #1 (coverless) $150, Leading Comics #1 (near fine) $1150 trade, All Star #3 (coverless) $300.

More news from Arizona

The most striking recent trend is the major upswing in demand in horror comics of all ages. Pre-Code issues are tougher than ever to get and sell for well above guide levels. Modern horror is surprisingly the single hottest genre of back-issues. I sell many copies per week of entire runs, including: Lady Death Velvet $33, Lady Death #2 $12, Lady Death 1 Commemorative $50, Shi #1 $10, Cry For Dawn #3 $16, Razor Annual #1 (1st Shi) $20, Vengeance of Vampirella #1 $10, EO #1 $6, etc...We've been fortunate to be able to obtain copies regularly of these lower print run issues, and they sell instantly!

Silver-Age is quite brisk, at current Wizard levels. Demand for all mutant titles is solid. Stephen Platt seems to be the hottest artist lately with Moon Knight #57 being especially hot at $15 with the Spidey cover/story.

Last week we obtained some of the rare limited/numbered editions of Razor Annual #1 with the first published work by William (Shi) Tucci (999 released), these sold immediately at $30 each. We got a high grade Cry for Dawn #1 (1st print) yesterday that will probably be sold at $100 by the time I write the next market letter.

Spawn back issues are still solid movers. Gen 13 and Kindred are hot too. Valiant pre-unity issues are beginning to sell a bit faster (than earlier this year).

We get countless requests for Amazing Spiderman #149 and #150 due to "clone-action" and much curiosity and speculative interest. We could sell #149 easily in the $40-50 range if we could still restock...

HOW TO USE TICKERTAPE

TickerTape is such a revolutionary way of reporting prices that, at first, many readers don't understand how to use it. But once they see what it is all about, most people say, "Whoa! Why didn't someone think of this before?" The answer is simple, no one else has the genius and vision that us Einstein's here at Comics Source have. Ha!

To help you lesser mortals understand, we have provided the information below to help explain the format. Remember, all of the prices you see in TickerTape are actual, documented sales—not estimates, averages, or bald-faced guesses. Hey, TickerTape is the truest kind of price guide. But we're always looking for ways to improve, so if you have any suggestions, write us at TickerTape, Box 2512, Chattanooga, TN 37409

BUYING DIRECT

MAIL-ORDER TIPS

For many of you, mail-order is your primary means of purchasing items for your collection. That's why COMICS SOURCE has put together the following special section. Our Mail-Order Marketplace offers a convenient place to quickly find the items you need from a wide variety of dealers and collectors. But before you shop by phone, look for the mail-order source that is best for you. Here are a few tips to help you get the most out of your buying experience.

Mail order is an excellent way to buy and sell, because it gives you instant access to more buyers, sellers and merchandise than can be found in any geographic market. But, as in any endeavor, it's smart to take precautions.

HERE ARE A FEW TIPS THAT WILL MAKE YOUR DEALINGS THROUGH THE MAIL EASY AND HASSLE FREE.

RESEARCH THE COMPANY

Well-established companies or long-time collectors tend to be reliable, but if you're not sure how well established a company or individual is, it pays to do a little research and ask a few questions. Get References. Call the publication the ad was placed in and inquire as to any complaints levied against the persons placing the ad. Comics Source blacklists any advertiser who receives three unresolved written complaints.

START SMALL

Purchase inexpensive items first, if possible. If you're pleased with the service you receive, order again.

COMPARE PRICES

If a price seems too good to be true, beware. One of the greatest features of our marketplace is the ability to quickly compare prices. If someone's price is far below what others are offering the item for, ask why. There could be a good reason, but sometimes this is a sign of a potential rip-off. We try to screen advertisers, but it's still smart to take precautions.

PAY WITH CREDIT

Whenever possible, use a credit card. Some credit card companies do such things as chargeback on unsatisfactory purchases or give a refund if you find a lower price elsewhere. If you have a problem with an order, your credit card company will often deal with the mail-order company.

BE CAUTIOUS

Keep a record of your transactions (orders, follow-up letters, phone conversations) so that you have recourse in the unlikely event of a problem.

CONSIDER USING A 3RD PARTY SERVICE

3rd party services, such as Pacific Comics Exchange, offer to act as an escrow service. Companies charge a fee for this service, but the fee is well worth it if you're spending large sums of money.

ASK FOR PHOTOCOPIES

Most reliable collectors or dealers will be only too glad to send you a photocopy or Polaroid photo of an item. Sometimes they may ask for a small fee per photo.

DELIVERY METHODS

Ask about delivery methods — find out what carriers are used, how fast they are, and how much each one costs. Record delivery information.

RETURN POLICIES

Because you're buying sight unseen, make sure the company or individual has a return policy you're comfortable with. Find out if you are responsible for paying shipping charges on returned goods and whether you'll be charged a restocking fee. A typical return policy is six days from date of receipt. If the company does not offer a return policy, don't buy!

Buyer Protection Department

Comics Source is committed to providing a safe and honest marketplace for buyers and sellers. Most people are honest, but whenever money is involved, one bad apple can spoil the bunch. Caveat Emptor.

In our never-ending quest to provide collectors with the ultimate comic book collector's magazine, the editors of Comics Source have launched this new department. Our goal is to keep readers informed of buyers and sellers who have been "less than satisfactory" in their dealings with customers. Only those people who have complaints registered in writing are blacklisted in this department. The only way that someone can be removed from the blacklist is if all complaints are resolved. In the spirit of fairness that is the essence of mail-order buying, any advertiser who has a complaint lodged against him has the right to respond in writing to the complaint at any time after the complaint has been lodged. All correspondence will be updated and reported in this column. Advertisers who have complaints lodged against them will be prohibited from advertising in Comics Source until such time as all complaints have been resolved.

Remember, only Comics Source protects buyers in this way!

Michael Maxim

In our last column, complaints had been placed against Michael Maxim, one or our advertisers. Currently all written complaints have been resolved satisfactorily.

If You Have A Complaint

If you are having trouble with an advertiser in Comics Source, please notify us in writing!

MAKING THE GRADE

Comic Book Values Are Determined By Condition

by Jon R. Warren

Comic books, like movie posters, coins, stamps, sports cards, and everything else that people collect, are valued according to condition. Because human beings prize things that glitter, the more like new the book is, the more collectors will pay for it. Seems simple enough, right? WRONG!

Because talking about condition really means talking about money, buyers and sellers often have a hard time agreeing on the grade of a book. But, fortunately, there are standard terms that everyone does agree on (what those terms mean is another story). Unluckily, it takes years of looking at thousands of variances of grade before you can really be a knowledgeable grader. So how do you know what grade a comic book is in if you are new at "making the grade"? Let me suggest that you start simple and then focus in on the final grade. Here's what I mean:

PERFECT

We all know what that is, it's a book in brand new condition. When you go to the newstand and pick the best copy you can find, that's probably a PERFECT like-new comic book (unless it was mangled on the newsstand). The term for a comic book in perfect condition is MINT. Although some dealers will try to convince you that 30 or 40 year-old comic books aren't graded as strictly as new comics, I wouldn't believe it if I were you. When it comes to MINT, mint is mint. Period.

ABOVE AVERAGE

If someone bought a comic, read it once or twice, then carefully filed it away, it is in ABOVE AVERAGE condition. We refer to comics in above average condition as VF or VERY FINE.

AVERAGE

The term collectors use to describe AVERAGE is VERY GOOD or VG for short. Since comic books were meant to be read and handled, books that have been read and handled are in average condition. Creased corners, little tears, stuff that you could expect from normal use is common in a VG condition book.

BELOW AVERAGE

Comic books that you owned when you were six years old are in BELOW AVERAGE condition because you probably beat the @@#$!! out of them. And they look it! The comic is still complete with all pages, but the cover might be loose, or a piece might be missing from the corner. You know what I mean... ROUGH ROUGH! Collectors call comics in below average condition "GOOD" or "G". Actually, there's nothing good about it at all other than the fact that you have a copy to keep until a better one comes along.

POOR

A book that looks like it was rescued from the trash is in POOR condition. You know you have handled a POOR condition book when you rush to wash your hands afterwards.

Now that you know the five basic ranges of condition a comic book can be in, it's a much easier task to focus in on exactly what the real grade is. Try it yourself. Take a stack of your books and grade them. Is the first one in the stack just like the day you bought it except for a tiny bend on the corner? Then it's not MINT, but you could certainly say it is ABOVE AVERAGE. Put it in the VF stack. Does the next one in the stack look kind of read and re-read? Put it in the VG stack. Continue sorting the books by basic grades. When you are done, refer to the following detailed grading descriptions. You can focus in on the actual grade by reading these fine-tuning grading descriptions. The one that sounds the closest to the grade of your book is the actual grade.

Here are the terms that we comic book afficionados use to describe condition. Throughout the pages of Comics Source you will see these codes used to indicate grade. Memorize them, learn what they mean, and then you can start "Making The Grade."

WARREN GRADING SYSTEM™ & TERMS

The unique terms and grade definitions used here and the system of + and - to illustrate variations of grade is the Warren Grading System, © and ™ Jon R. Warren.

M MINT

A Perfect 10 on a 1-10 scale. A flawless copy in the same condition as the day it was printed. The MINT grade is virtually non-existent in Pre-1970 comics*. Golden Age comics in MINT are extremely rare and fetch huge premiums over average copies of the same comic. When grading a comic mint, no consideration should be given to the age of the book. No printing defects can appear on a MINT comic. The cover should have full original gloss, and appear bright, with sharp corners and no imperfections of any sort. Minute color variations can occur during printing, and are allowed in the MINT classification. The inside covers and all pages are creamy white and fresh. The binding (spine) is tight, flat, and clean without wear or stress lines. Not the slightest blemish can be detected around staples, along the binding and edges or at corners. Arrival dates pencilled (not inked) on the cover are usually acceptable as long as they're very small. When the surfaces of the front and back covers are held to the light, not the slightest wear, indentations, wrinkles or defects of any kind can be observed. As comics must be truly perfect to be in this grade, they are obviously extremely scarce and seldom offered for sale.

NM/M NEAR MINT TO MINT

Approaching MINT but with a very slight blemish of some sort.

NM+

Top of the NM range. NM/M and NM+ are interchangeable.

NM NEAR MINT

9 on a 1-10 scale. A copy that is virtually MINT but for one or two very tiny imperfections. Like new but with tiny flaws found on most new comics. A tiny (1/16th inch) color flake missing at a staple, corner or edge, or a tiny (1/16th inch) edge tear is allowable in the category if no other imperfections are present. No crease of any kind. Superb cover gloss is present. A very few tiny stress lines along the spine could be present. Pages and covers should be creamy to white, not yellow or brown. No color touch-up, repair or restoration of any kind is allowed in this grade. This grade is very rare in books prior to 1970.

NM-

Bottom of the NM range.

VF/NM VERY FINE NEAR MINT

8 on a 1-10 scale. Beautiful, glossy and excellent in every way with only minor imperfections that keep it out of the higher grades. One tiny corner crease of less than 1/8th inch length is allowed. A couple of tiny (1/16th inch) stress lines along the spine are acceptable if the appearance of the book is not gravely affected. Pages should be creamy white, not yellowed or tan. A common defect in this grade is a tiny spine tear at the upper or lower binding (spine) not greater than 1/16th inch in length. One or two tiny tears (1/16th inch) are permitted in this grade if the copy is otherwise without flaw. An extremely tiny tear repair, microscopic dot color touch-up, unobtrusive arrival date erasure or other similar invisible alteration, on an otherwise Near Mint copy, is permitted in this grade.

MINT IS COMMON IN RECENT COMICS

*Today, most recent comics are bought by collectors and immediately sealed in protective coverings. Recent releases are usually in Near Mint to Mint condition.

VF+

Top of the VF range.

VF VERY FINE

7 on a 1-10 scale. Superb. An outstanding copy in an unusual state of preservation. Clean and bright with sharp corners and pliant interior paper. Slight cover wear is present; possibly 5 or 6 tiny wrinkles or stress lines at staples or along spine where cover has been opened a few times; still clean and flat with 80 per cent of cover gloss retained. Interior page quality should be creamy to white, not yellowish or brown. A few tiny color chips or imperfections could be present. A faint 1/4" corner crease on an otherwise exceptional copy could be present in this grade. Very minor professional restoration or repair is permitted in this grade if noted and described.

VF-

Bottom of the VF range.

FVF FINE-VERY FINE

6 on a 1-10 scale. Above Average. A clean, bright copy lacking the crispness associated with Very Fine. Pages can be slightly yellowed but not brown or brittle. Several tiny stress lines along the spine or covers can be expected. Several tiny color flakes are permitted. No subscription creases or spine roll allowed in this grade. Corners may be slightly rounded. Exceptional cover gloss remains (60 per cent or more).

F+

Top of the FINE range.

F FINE

5 on a 1-10 scale. A slightly better-than-average copy with obvious aging and diminishment, but still relatively flat, clean and glossy without subscription creases, writing on cover (except an arrival date), brown margins or tape repairs. Typical flaws include: Light spine wear, minor surface wear, a light crease (1/4" in length), minor yellowing/tanning to interior pages. Still a bright copy with 50 per cent cover gloss. A few stress lines around staples and along spine are normal in this grade, but not more than 1/8" in length. One small edge chip or several tiny chips (such as Marvel chips) are permitted in this grade. One minor tear is allowed on an otherwise FVF copy. A very minor spine roll on an otherwise clean and uncreased copy is permitted in this grade..

F-

Bottom of the FINE range.

VG/F (VERY GOOD FINE)

4 on a 1-10 scale. Better than VG+, approaching FINE but not quite sharp enough to merit the higher grade. Frequently, a FINE copy with an unusual flaw is lowered to VG/F.

VG+

Top of the VG range.

VG (VERY GOOD)

3 on a 1-10 scale. Average. Ordinary signs of use. Appears used, but not abused. The common state of preservation of a comic book that has been used as intended. Significant diminishment of original cover glossiness. Noticeable discoloration or fading could be present. One or two minor markings on covers is permitted. Minor binding (spine) rolling may have occurred. Lightly creased along spine or extremities; a faint subscription crease is allowed. The covers could have a minor tear or crease where a corner was folded under. The centerfold could be detached or loose from the staples. A small chip or piece from the covers, or a small piece from an interior page that does not affect the live area (artwork area), is acceptable. Pages and inside covers could be tannish or yellowed, but not brittle. A small tape repair could be present in this grade. Still, the appearance of the comic is such that many collectors find the book acceptable until a finer copy can be located.

VG-

Bottom of the VG range.

G/VG GOOD VERY GOOD

2 on a 1-10 scale. Approaching VERY GOOD, with too many signs of abuse to be a solid VERY GOOD. G/VG and G+ represent a very slight variation in grade.

G+

Top of the GOOD range.

G GOOD

1 on a 1-10 scale. Below average. A worn copy but complete with all pages including centerfold, which may or may not be loose. Creased, scuffed, covers lack gloss, faded. Pages could be brown and brittle. Although a copy in this grade could have white pages and covers, the accumulation of defects such as creases, tears or chips and general wear prevent the book from a higher classification.

G-

Bottom of the GOOD range.

FR/G

Approaching GOOD, with too much wear to be a solid GOOD. FR/G and FR+ are interchangeable.

FR+

Heavily worn but approaching the GOOD classification.

FR FAIR

1/2 on a 1-10 scale. Used and abused. Extremely worn, creased, and dirty, with possibly loose pages or significant tears, but still complete. Possibly small pieces missing from the cover, inked markings, tape, etc.

P POOR

0 on a 1-10 scale! A terrible copy. Damaged; extremely worn; dirty; or otherwise unsuited for collection purposes. Pages could be missing. Could be coverless if noted.

HOW TO USE THE MARKETPLACE

The Comics Source Marketplace is such a revolutionary way of listing comics for sale that, at first, many readers don't understand how to use it. But once they see how it works, the benefits are immediately obvious. Because all comics are listed alphabetically, regardless of who the seller is, finding comics for your collection is quick and simple. No longer do you have to scan hundreds of ads with a magnifying glass (like you do in CBG).

But our format admittedly takes some getting used to, so to help you newcomers understand, we have provided the information below.

Remember, all of the items in the Marketplace are either FOR SALE or WANTED. You contact buyers or sellers directly, using their ID Code and the directory found in the back of the magazine.

We're always looking for ways to improve, so if you have any suggestions, write us at Comics Source Marketplace, Box 2512, Chattanooga, TN 37409

The asking price, or the price the buyer is willing to pay.

This code identifies who the buyer or seller is. Look in the alphabetical advertiser directory in the back of the magazine for the name, address, and telephone #.

HOW TO ORDER

Comics Source is not a clearinghouse or middleman, you buy directly from each advertiser. A code at the end of each listing tells you who the advertiser is — find the address and telephone number by looking up the code in the Marketplace Advertiser Directory in the back of this issue.

To simplify the job of placing your order, we recommend these steps:

1 Make a list of all items you want to buy, arrange it by "Seller ID," then title, issue number, price, etc.

2 Use the Marketplace Advertisers Directory, in the back of this issue, to locate the address and telephone number of each seller on your list.

3 If you like, call the seller to verify that the items are still available.

4 If you place a hold on any comics, be sure to promptly send payment directly to the seller. If you don't send payment within 7 days, you may lose the item.

5 Read the Mail-Order Terms, don't forget to add the necessary shipping charge.

6 Send payment and a copy of your order to the seller with your name, address, and telephone number written clearly. Keep a copy for your records. Be sure to send your payment directly to the seller, not to Comics Source.

THE MARKET-PLACE & HOW IT WORKS

How do you contact the advertisers? Simple, all you do is look up the ID code at the end of each listing in the MARKETPLACE ADVERTISER DIRECTORY (in the back of this issue). There you will find the name, address, and (usually) the telephone number. Call 'em up and order!

The COMICS SOURCE Indexed Marketplace is a unique method of arranging ads. Each listing is like a classified ad, with a code at the end that indicates who the buyer or seller is.

Remember, COMICS SOURCE is not a clearinghouse or middle-man, you deal directly with each advertiser.

MAIL-ORDER SELLING TIPS

1 Ship orders within two days after the check clears.

2 Get a supply of padded mailers, boxes, mailing labels, and shipping tape. These are available at your local office supply store. Package with extreme care to avoid any damage in shipment. Inform the buyer when you will ship the order, and then follow up on it.

3 Always insure your package. For U.S. Postal Service packages, use a return receipt so that someone must sign for it. Whenever possible, use UPS or Federal Express becuase they automatically require a signature.

4 Pack books carefully in a sturdy box or mailer. Don't cram books into a package.

5 Include your name and address on both the outside and inside of your package.

6 Don't spend the money until the buyer's return privilege expires.

7 If an item is already sold, send a refund check, not a credit form.

8 Treat your buyers the way you'd like to be treated and they will become good customers—buying again and again.

9 As a Comics Source advertiser, you must accept returns for any reason if the comic(s) is sent back in the same condition received and postmarked within six days of receipt. Send refunds promptly. If comics you sent were damaged by the carrier, refund the buyer's money immediately and file your insurance claim.

Mail-Order sales have become highly regulated by the USPS, observing these rules will avoid problems.
